

Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood

Fire fighters face some of the harshest conditions this world has to offer, and are expected to save others from these environments; the Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood is designed to help the professional save lives.

The Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood is a constant flow emergency escape hood which allows for safe and uncomplicated escape from hazardous environments. The small light weight design allows a fire fighter to move without encumbrance.

Developed with the user in mind the Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood is easy to don, can be used by anyone regardless of face shape or size and is suitable for users with glasses or facial hair.

The Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood works in conjunction with any Self Contained Breathing Apparatus (SCBA) unit fitted with a secondary supply hose (providing the assembly is approved to the requirements of EN137).

The hood assembly incorporates a 1.5m flexible airline hose and a foam silencer pad to reduce the noise level during operation.

The unit is quick and easy to activate by simply placing over the head of the person to be rescued and connecting to the secondary supply hose connection, the hood is fixed in place by a simple draw string around the neck and a constant stream of air is released in to the hood.

The Dräger PSS® Rescue Hood and all components are fully flame retardant. Approved to EN137:2006 with all Dräger BA sets and falls in line with 89/686/EEC using tests from EN146.
